Tradition of Alumni Pins Revived for Class of '17

A tradition dating back to the early days of Rush Medical College is being revived in honor of the Class of 1917 which is celebrating the 50th anniversary of their graduation from the college.

All members of the honored class will receive a lapel pin engraved with the year of their graduation. Made of 10 karat gold, the pin receives its design from one which was awarded the Alumni Association in the late 1800's. The last known date of the award was 1895 prior to the college's affiliation with the University of Chicago.

The class of 1917 now numbers 53. It is hoped that a large number of the alumni will be able to attend the reunion luncheon June 20 in Atlantic City during the American Medical Association meeting.

Rush Alumni to Gather at AMA

THE RUSH ALUMNI PIN

The annual meeting of the Alumni Association of Rush Medical College will be held at 12:30 p.m., June 20, during the American Medical Association meeting in Atlantic City, New Jersey.

The meeting and a reunion luncheon will take place in the Holiday Inn located at the Atlantic City expressway and the Boardwalk. Cost of the luncheon will be $5.00 and tickets can be purchased through the Alumni Association (1758 West Harrison Street, Chicago 60612) or at the registration desk at the AMA meeting.

Special guests of the meeting will be members of the class of 1917 who are celebrating the 50th anniversary of their graduation. Prior to the meeting members of the class will receive the Rush Alumni pin engraved with the year of their graduation.

Rush Men Say 'Count Us In' to Active Group

An overwhelming response was received from members of the Alumni Association of Rush Medical College to the announcement of the publication of an alumni bulletin.

The alumni office received more than 350 replies to a request for news items to be included in this issue. Many of the replies included words of encouragement and support for the reactivated Alumni Association.

"It is surely fine that we have a working Alumni Association now and are going to have a Rush bulletin periodically," wrote Dr. Bernard H. Ailts '37. "I plan to attend any alumni meeting in the near future which would associate with the Chicago medical meeting. I am most anxious to renew all old acquaintances. I have the 1937 hundredth anniversary picture hanging in my office and have always been very proud to have graduated from this fine medical college."

Classmate Dr. Victor Tepper '37 said, "I wish there would be a reunion of the Rush Class of 1937." Dr. Frank G. Murphy '15 also says he is looking forward to the next Rush reunion.

"Glad to see Rush alumni holding together. Count me in," writes Orwood J. Campbell, '23.

"I have always enjoyed reunions," writes Herman F. Boerner, Jr. '42. "I would attend one, if for no other reason than the fact that I never grow older."

Libby Pulsifer '16 says, "I am disappointed our class has never gotten together since graduation. I still hope we may see fellow class members for a few hours. I would respond to a challenge, or even challenge, anyone to a golf match with appropriate strokes."

"So many of my closest friends of Rush are not with us today, but I do like to learn where my associates are and what they are doing," says Frederick W. Muslow '21.

"Thanks for the bulletin," writes Wilfred S. Miller '27. "I am always glad to hear from my old friends and Rush."

Name Executive Secretary To Coordinate Activities

The publication of this edition of the Rush Alumni Bulletin marks the first step in a plan to revitalize activities of the Alumni Association of Rush Medical College. James R. Stack has been appointed editor of the Bulletin and executive secretary of the Association.

Mr. Stack is a member of the Presbyterian-St. Luke's Hospital development and public relations department which he joined in 1964. He was formerly assistant development director of Hamilton College (Clinton, New York) and public relations director of the United Fund of Allegheny County (Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania).

Mr. Stack will coordinate and plan future activities of the Alumni Association. He is currently working on the 1967 reunion program planned for the Rush annual meeting in June. He is also preparing a historical exhibit entitled "The Influence of Rush Medical College on the History of Chicago Medicine."

Alumni Asked to Aid in Memorabilia Search As Work Begins on Rush History Exhibition

The history of Rush Medical College and its influence on Chicago medicine will be the theme of an exhibit at Presbyterian-St. Luke's hospital this summer.

Members of the Alumni Association are being asked to provide information as to the location and availability of items to be included in the exhibit.

The exhibit is being built around "The Story of Rush Medical College" published in 1953 and written by the late Dr. Ernest E. Irons, emeritus professor of medicine and dean of students and faculty 1923-36.

Among the items available currently for display are copies of the Rush College charter, photos of the college buildings in 1844, 1855, 1871, 1872 (the college under the sidewalk), and 1874, a medallion presented to Dr. Frank Billings in 1924, a microscope presented to Dr. N. S. Davis by the class of 1852, and various other items.

Formal portraits of faculty members and graduates which currently hang in the Rush Medical Library will also appear in the exhibit. These include Daniel Brainard, Frank Billings, Nicholas Senn, James V. Z. Blaney, Arthur Dean Bevan, James B. Herrick, Joseph W. Freer, and De Laskie Miller.

Additional items needed for the exhibit are mementos, awards, newspaper clippings, class photos, or anything that applies to the history of Rush. Any items sent for the exhibit should be properly identified. If the name and address of the sender is attached to the item it will be returned. Historical pictures will be copied and returned immediately.

Items or information should be sent to James Stack, Alumni Association of Rush Medical College, 1758 West Harrison Street, Chicago, Illinois 60612.

Kin Learn Heritage Not Forgotten

Although the class of 1942 was the last to graduate from Rush Medical College, the history of the college is still very much alive. On January 4, Mrs. Walter O. Wilson, of Farmington, Connecticut, wrote Rush Medical College requesting information about a portrait of her grandfather Dr. DeLaskie Miller which had been presented to the college in 1894.

She had read of the portrait in a book entitled "A Group of Distinguished Physicians and Surgeons of Chicago." She also requested any additional information that the College might have.

The letter was directed to Dr. James Merricks, secretary-treasurer of the Rush Alumni. He knew that the portrait was still hanging in the Rush Library on the first floor of the Rawson Building. He also asked William Kona, medical librarian, to research material on Dr. Miller's career.

Dr. Miller joined the college in 1859 in the obstetrical chair. He served as secretary of the faculty from 1863 until 1877.

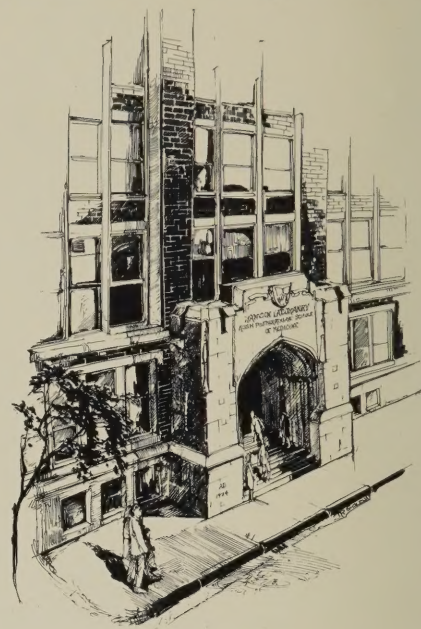

Dr. Miller was elected emeritus professor of Rush in 1889. He was elected president of the Board of Trustees for the College in 1892. He also served as president of the Gynecological Society in 1881, president of the Ninth International Medical Congress in 1887, and editor of the Chicago Medical Journal.

Dr. Merricks had a full color copy of the portrait made in the Presbyterian-St. Luke's Hospital photographic department and sent it to Mrs. Wilson with a complete resume on Dr. Miller's tenure with Rush and a faculty roster.

Mrs. Wilson recently wrote in part, "Thank you very much for your kind and satisfactory letter. I am so glad to have the information about my grandfather and to know that the 'archives' of the college have the information about him.

"He lived with my family for some years during my childhood, so I had the privilege of close companionship with him. I often heard him talk with the then practicing physicians who had been students under him."

Pediatric Library Honors Grandson of Dr. Kelly, Sr. '21

THE KELLY MEMORIAL BOOKPLATE

The Frank B. Kelly, III, Pediatric Memorial Library has been established at Presbyterian-St. Luke's Hospital in memory of the grandson of Dr. Frank B. Kelly, Sr., '21.

Dr. Kelly is president of the Trustees of Rush Medical College and a consulting physician on the staff of Presbyterian-St. Luke's Hospital. He has been a member of the staff since 1923.

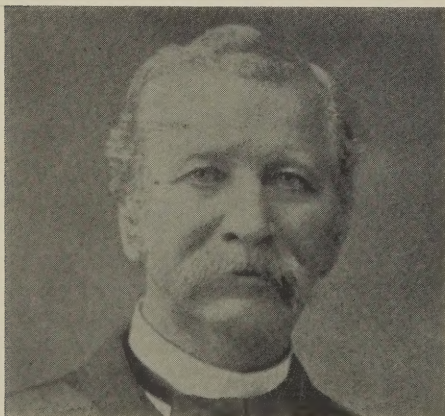

The library contains pediatric reference books and the latest pediatric periodicals. The library is open to members of the attending and house staffs, medical students and nurses. Located in the hospital's pediatrics department, the library will be supported by contributions to the memorial fund.

of United States Army hospitals. Then she worked in state hospitals 10 years.

GREEN, JOHN W. '08 (Vallejo, California) has an E.E.N.T. practice and is on the staff of Vallejo General (Honorary, 50 years) and County hospitals. He was vice president of his class in 1908.

KAUFMANN, GUSTAV L. '08 (Chicago, Illinois) is beginning his 57th year on the staff of Children's Memorial Hospital. He is semi-retired from his pediatric practice and has been in charge of the hospital's health service since January, 1966.

STRAUSS, ALFRED A. '08 (Chicago, Illinois), is a surgeon on the staffs of Louis A. Weiss Memorial, Michael Reese, Franklin Boulevard and Mt. Sinai hospitals, and holds the rank of clinical professor of surgery at the University of Washington.

GOAR, EVERETT L. '09 (Houston, Texas) is a semi-retired ophthalmologist working half days. He is professor and chairman (emeritus) of the department of ophthalmology at Baylor university and is on the consulting staffs of Memorial Baptist, St. Joseph's, St. Luke's, Hermann and Methodist hospitals.

Stevens '99 Recalls Early Texas Practice

Nobody is interested in a 93 year old alumnus. At least, that is what Dr. Bramwell F. Stevens '99 (El Paso, Texas) thinks. But we received a clipping from the El Paso Times which makes very interesting reading.

In 1901, Dr. Stevens was given six years to live as a victim of Bright's disease. He moved to El Paso because he was told that a warm climate would help prolong his life. It must have worked because on May 1 he will celebrate his 93rd birthday.

When he arrived in El Paso, doctors and nurses were badly needed and medical facilities were generally inadequate. There were no antibiotics, antiseptics or vaccines for smallpox, diphtheria, typhoid and dysentery.

He remembers, "We had to improvise and sterilize our own suture materials. We purchased violin E strings and soaked them in alcohol, iodine and ether for a month.

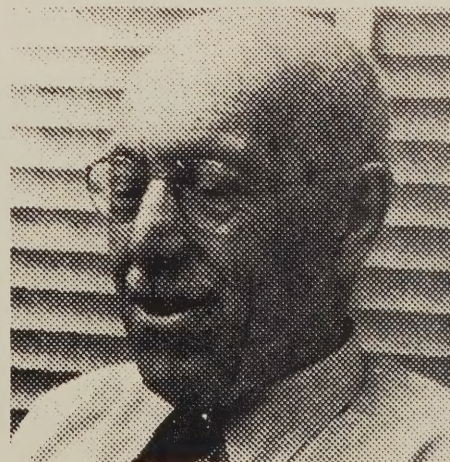

"The chloroform used in surgery was responsible for one death per 1,000 patients. I introduced the use of ether via the drop method and the mortality rate went down to one in 5,000."

He recalls with some pride that he was one of the first three doctors in El Paso to make his calls in an automobile. He says, "That 1905 Maxwell was infinitely better than the horse and buggy rig I had been using. You did not have to worry about its running away or being stolen. It was a tremendous improvement."

Dr. Stevens retired from his general and surgical practice in 1957. Over the years, he held office as president, secretary and treasurer of the El Paso Medical Society. He was also company surgeon for the El Paso Electric Company and chief of staff at County Hospital and Hotel Dieu.

Dr. Stevens married a young nurse in 1924 who also came to El Paso for her health. They are still happily married and they spend their time taking rides in the country and visiting old friends. Dr. Stevens enjoys watching television and reading the newspapers.

NOTE:

The items in this section are listed alphabetically according to graduating class. All class years have been verified with records of Rush Medical College. Designations of classes 1917 through 1937 are based on the year in which the medical degree was conferred rather than the year in which the four year certificate was awarded.

"I have tried to combine some physical activities with professional opportunities (hospital boards, Chicago Heart association committees, seeing some patients) with pleasures such as playing string quartets, sailing, travel, to give me something challenging to do and something challenging to look forward to."

The International Harvester company, with whom Dr. Lyon was associated for many years, has established an award in Dr. Lyon's honor at Presbyterian-St. Luke's hospital. It is presented every year to the intern in medicine and surgery who "in the performance of his duties, best exemplifies the high devotion and dedicated service which have characterized Dr. Lyon's professional career."

MARGOLIS, DAVID J. '17 (Chicago, Illinois) is retired from private practice. He attended the Rush meeting last June and reports it "was a treat . . . reminiscing with old friends and schoolmates."

PEARLMAN, SAMUEL J. '17 (Los Angeles, California) reports that he is semi-retired but still has a modest practice (E.N.T.) and has an active interest in teaching. He is an associate professor (emeritus) at Northwestern University School of Medicine, and presently lectures on head and neck surgery at the UCLA Medical center. He is a member of the staff of Cedars of Lebanon and Mt. Sinai hospitals. His practice and teaching "keeps me busy and happy."

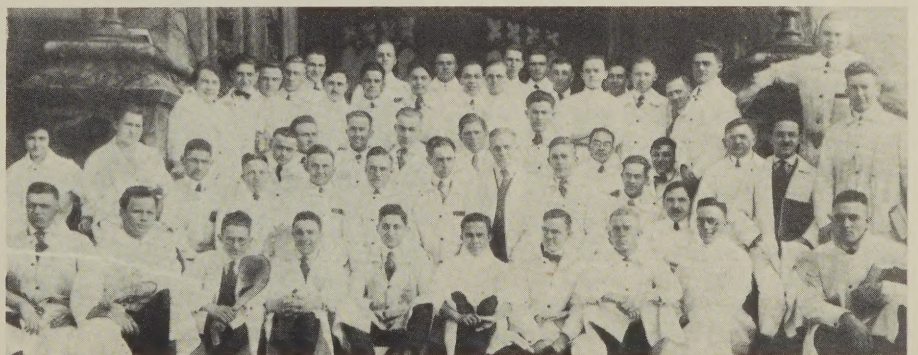

ROBINS, CHARLES A. '17 (Lewiston, Idaho) retired from general practice in 1958, after serving on the staff of St. Marie's hospital from 1919-46. From 1939-46 he served in the Idaho State Senate and was elected Governor of Idaho for the following four years. From 1951-58 he was medical director North Idaho Medical Service Bureau (Blue Shield). He suffered a severe coronary in May of 1957 which caused his retirement the following year.

He still remains busy with some extra curricular activities. During the legislative sessions of 1959-61 and 1963 and 1965 he served as the representative of the Idaho State Medical Association by running a dispensary for the convenience and care of the legislators and attaches. He reports, "As a public relations action, it was thoroughly appreciated and kept me slightly more on my toes professionally." During the 1950's he served as director of the board, North Idaho Children's Home, chairman of the United Fund, and member of the vestry of the Episcopal Church. He and his wife have three daughters. One is an R.N. like her mother and grandmother. Among the Rush alumni that he sees in Idaho are WALLACE PIERCE '37, JOHN AYERS '42, KENNETH COLLINS '31, HAMILTON GREENWOOD '33, SAMUEL FORNEY '08, and RICHARD FORNEY '39. East Brady Thanks 'Doc' Purdum With Dollar Tree Party Frederick P. Purdum '26 was honored by the entire community of East Brady, Pennsylvania, upon his retirement after 39 years of active practice on March 29, 1966.

Highlight of the banquet was the presentation of a dollar-laden shrub referred to as "Doc Purdum's Give Me A Buck Tree." The tree was presented as a thank you from the community for Dr. Purdum's years of consideration to others.

In making the presentation the speaker remarked, "I have often wondered what this has meant to us, as people of meager means, over the last 39 years, to have an office consultation, an assuring pat on the back, a bag or two of pills and have "Doc" say when we asked how much do I owe you . . . 'Oh, that'll be about a buck.' What a financial sacrifice!

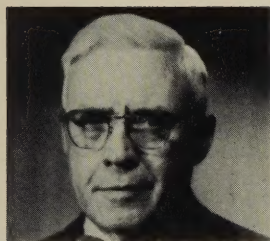

Following the retirement party, Dr. Purdum and his wife, Carmel, went on a trailer caravan tour to Mexico. Recently they took a two month, 9,000 mile trip to the Western states. They attended the dedication of a nine floor women's residence at the University of San Francisco, Hayes Healy Hall, honoring Mrs. Purdum's parents.

The Purdums have two sons, one is a navy career man with the rank of lieutenant commander and the other is in computer programming in California.

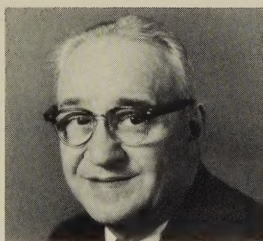

AT TESTIMONIAL DINNER in East Brady, Pennsylvania, Dr. Frederick P. Purdum '26 (center) was honored along with members of his family (left to right) Mr. and Mrs. John Purdum, youngest son and wife; Mrs. Frederick Purdum and "Doc"; Mr. J. H. McClaine, chairman of the dinner; and Lt. Com. William Purdum, oldest son. They say "half the town's population turned out to honor 'Doc' on his retirement."

WHITELEY, PHILIP W. '20 (Denver, Colorado) practices obstetrics and gynecology and is on the consulting staff of St. Luke's hospital.

DANIELS, LUMAN E. '21 (Denver, Colorado) reports he is still active in his practice of neurology and is on the staffs of Children's, St. Luke's, St. Joseph's, Presbyterian, Mercy, General Rose Memorial, St. Anthony and Beth Israel hospitals. He holds the rank of clinical professor, emeritus, at the University of Colorado School of Medicine.

DRAGSTEDT, LESTER R. '21 (Gainesville, Florida) retired from the University of Chicago seven years ago and since then has carried on an active program of research and teaching as research professor of surgery at the University of Florida. He lectures two or three times a month before medical societies and hospitals throughout the United States. On these occasions, he meets many Rush graduates and former students. "At the recent meeting of the American College of Surgeons, I had a very pleasant reunion with DR. EDWARD DUDLEY ALLEN '20 and his wife who now live in Walnut Creek, California. Both Grace and Dudley are in excellent health and enthusiastic about their new home. I suspect that golf will be a major activity from now on with gynecology and the snow and ice of Chicago only a pleasant memory."

KELLY, FRANK B., SR. '21 (Chicago, Illinois) practices internal medicine and is a consultant in medicine at Presbyterian-St. Luke's hospital. He holds the rank of clinical professor of medicine (emeritus Rush) at the University of Illinois College of Medicine.

MULSOW, FREDERICK W. '21 (Cedar Rapids, Iowa) has a part time practice in internal medicine and is on the staffs of St. Luke's Methodist and Mercy hospitals. He writes, "I try to keep up-to-date in the control of cancer and do this locally through the investigation of deaths from cancer in Iowa. There is much more to be done to control cancer today."

SMITH, ROY E. '21 (Los Angeles, California) retired from practice in 1960 at the age of 70. His specialty was the diagnosis and treatment of tuberculosis. In 1921, he and his wife went to Syria as missionaries. They remained there until 1934. Their two sons, Esmond S., M.D., on the staff of the California Public Health Service, and Marshall W., a draftsman for San Diego County, were both born in Syria. In 1938 he joined the staff of Olive View sanatorium in California.

Dr. Jules Stein Becomes Mr. Show Biz

J. Stein '22

Not all Rush graduates have become a success in medicine. Jules Stein '22 (Los Angeles, California) has become known as "Mr. Show Business" to entertainment insiders according to a story by the Associated Press.

Now 70, Dr. Stein is the founder and chairman of MCA, Inc., a holding company for a $200,000,000 a year entertainment, real estate, and banking empire. It is the parent firm of Universal Television, Decca Records, and several other enterprises.

While Dr. Stein was a student at Rush, he worked his way through school by playing the violin and saxophone. After a year at the University of Vienna, he became chief resident ophthalmologist at Cook County Hospital.

In his spare time he used to book bands and conceived the idea of traveling dance bands. The idea proved so successful that he founded the Music Corporation of America in 1924. A year later he gave up his medical practice.

"Over the years we handled 600 bands and represented about 75 per cent of the great artists in the entertainment field," said Dr. Stein. "Among them were people like Edgar Bergen, Bette Davis, Clark Gable, Jack Benny and Jimmy Stewart."

Dr. Stein feels that his Rush education has helped him in the entertainment business. He says, "My medical background often stood me in good stead because some of my clients also became patients. I found sometimes that the more neurotic an artist was the greater also was his talent."

Dr. Stein still has an interest in medicine especially eye research. As chairman of an organization called Research to Prevent Blindness, Inc., he has helped raise more than $10,000,000 in the last seven years for some 30 medical colleges and ophthalmological institutes in the nation.

As a hobby, he has accumulated the world's largest collection of 18th century English furniture.

Rush Medical Library Carries on Teaching Tradition

The Rush Medical Library has become one of the finest medical libraries in the United States. It is maintained jointly by an endowment of the Trustees of Rush Medical College and Presbyterian-St. Luke's Hospital.

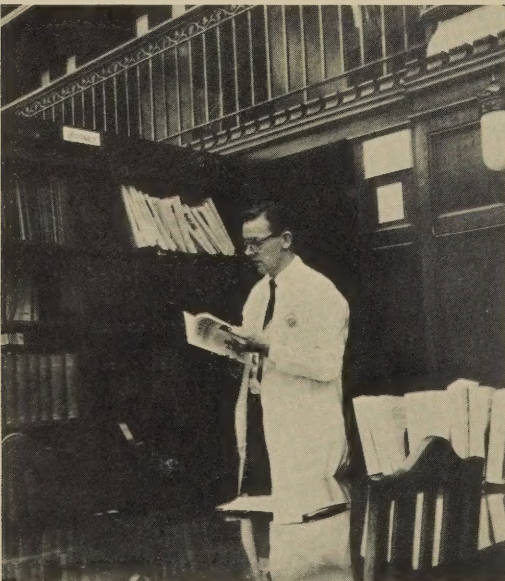

Located on the first floor of the Rawson Building at the corner of Harrison and Wood Streets, the library is supervised by a competent staff of medical librarians. It is used daily by medical students, the attending and house staffs, and nursing students and staff.

The library contains approximately 42,500 volumes, files of 350 foreign and domestic medical journals, 2,250 volumes of rare medical books and 8,000 text and reference books embracing all fields of medicine. New text and reference books are currently being acquired at the rate of 200 annually.

The library is also the repository for much of the history of Rush Medical College. Many of the original manuscripts, catalogues, and publications of the college can be found in the library files. The walls of the library are hung with formal portraits of many famous faculty members and students of Rush.

The library continually attempts to keep abreast of medical progress through the purchase of new text and reference books. Alumni who wish to support the library may send gifts to the Alumni Association of Rush Medical College, c/o James Stack, 1758 West Harrison Street, Chicago, Illinois 60612.

◀ LATEST MEDICAL JOURNALS are available in the Rush Library for medical students and house and attending staff members. More than 350 domestic and foreign journals are on file.

STUDY TIME is often available in the Rush Library between floor assignments. ▶
